

ABORIGINAL AFFAIRS VICTORIA MINI POSTER SERIES

ABORIGINAL SCARRED TREES

Photo Identification Mini Poster 1

Characteristics

- Many scarred trees are found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Scars are usually found above ground level.
- Scars are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Scars are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Scarred Trees?

Scarred trees are trees that have been scarred by Aboriginal people. The scars are usually found above ground level and are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are Scarred Trees Found?

Scarred trees are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Scarred trees are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were scarred.
- They can tell us about the people who scarred them.

ABORIGINAL MOUNDS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 2

Characteristics

- Mounds are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Mounds are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Mounds are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Mounds?

Mounds are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Mounds are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Mounds are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were built.
- They can tell us about the people who built them.

ABORIGINAL FRESHWATER MIDDENS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 3

Characteristics

- Middens are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Middens are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Middens are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Middens?

Middens are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Middens are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Middens are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were built.
- They can tell us about the people who built them.

ABORIGINAL FLAKED STONE TOOLS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 4

Characteristics

- Flaked stone tools are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Flaked stone tools are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Flaked stone tools are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Flaked Stone Tools?

Flaked stone tools are tools made of stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Flaked stone tools are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Flaked stone tools are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL BURIALS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 5

Characteristics

- Burials are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Burials are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Burials are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Burials?

Burials are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Burials are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Burials are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL SURFACE SCATTERS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 6

Characteristics

- Surface scatters are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Surface scatters are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Surface scatters are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Surface Scatters?

Surface scatters are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Surface scatters are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Surface scatters are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL QUARRIES

Photo Identification Mini Poster 7

Characteristics

- Quarries are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Quarries are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Quarries are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Quarries?

Quarries are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Quarries are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Quarries are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL GROUND-EDGE AXES

Photo Identification Mini Poster 8

Characteristics

- Ground-edge axes are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Ground-edge axes are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Ground-edge axes are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Ground-Edge Axes?

Ground-edge axes are tools made of stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Ground-edge axes are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Ground-edge axes are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL GRINDING STONES

Photo Identification Mini Poster 9

Characteristics

- Grinding stones are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Grinding stones are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Grinding stones are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Grinding Stones?

Grinding stones are tools made of stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Grinding stones are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Grinding stones are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL STONE ARRANGEMENTS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 10

Characteristics

- Stone arrangements are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Stone arrangements are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Stone arrangements are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Stone Arrangements?

Stone arrangements are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Stone arrangements are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Stone arrangements are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL PLACES ON PRIVATE PROPERTY

Photo Identification Mini Poster 11

Characteristics

- Places on private property are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Places on private property are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Places on private property are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Places?

Aboriginal places are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Aboriginal places are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Aboriginal places are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL AXE-GRINDING GROOVES

Photo Identification Mini Poster 12

Characteristics

- Axe-grinding grooves are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Axe-grinding grooves are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Axe-grinding grooves are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Axe-Grinding Grooves?

Axe-grinding grooves are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Axe-grinding grooves are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Axe-grinding grooves are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL COASTAL SHELL MIDDENS

Photo Identification Mini Poster 13

Characteristics

- Coastal shell middens are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Coastal shell middens are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Coastal shell middens are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Coastal Shell Middens?

Coastal shell middens are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Coastal shell middens are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Coastal shell middens are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL ROCK ART

Photo Identification Mini Poster 14

Characteristics

- Rock art is often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Rock art is often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Rock art is often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Rock Art?

Rock art is structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Rock art is found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Rock art is a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

ABORIGINAL HISTORICAL PLACES

Photo Identification Mini Poster 15

Characteristics

- Historical places are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Historical places are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.
- Historical places are often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

What are Aboriginal Historical Places?

Historical places are structures made of earth or stone, often found in the same area, often with similar scars.

Where are They Found?

Historical places are found in many areas of Victoria, including the Grampians, the Otway Ranges, and the Gippsland region.

What Do They Tell Us?

- Historical places are a record of Aboriginal people's presence in an area.
- They can tell us about the time when they were made.
- They can tell us about the people who made them.

The A4 size mini-posters shown are available free of charge from:

Heritage Registrar
The Office of Aboriginal Affairs Victoria
PO Box 2392
Melbourne VIC 3001
Telephone: 1800 762 003
www.aboriginalaffairs.vic.gov.au

